Dahlia Morgan

Gender	Female
Race:	Human
Age:	29 Years
Faction:	Independent
Occupation:	Scholar, Expedition Leader
Rank:	N/A

Physical Appearance

Dahlia is a somewhat short human, standing at 5' 3". She has a rather healthy build, but isn't quite physically strong. Her skin is a pale creamy white and her face is somewhat round with two piercing blue eyes. Her hair is cut short into a slight “bowl”, and is a dark cobalt in color.

Biography

Dahlia was born 29 years ago, to a small family in Capital City. However, she spent most of her childhood living with her grandparents out of city limits. It was there that she first heard stories of ancient civilizations that would continue to flourish i in her mind as she grew older. She took great interest in pursuing the answers to all of these stories, and as such became a scholar within Capital

City.

Since she moved away from her family, she has been on several small expeditions and has continued her studies. She has recently attained enough money and endorsements from small scale investors to purchase an expedition-grade ship of her own. While small, it has everything she needs to deepen her research into Arcadian legend.

Personality

Dahlia is a highly inquisitive, if almost paranoid scholar. Having spent many years of her life studying discoveries of ancient ruins and old stories, she has picked up a fair amount of knowledge on the subject of ancient race known by many names, including Arcadia. Having saved up a small king's ransom through artifact sales and other work, she is willing to follow and expand her research for as far as it takes her. While not the most open person in the world, Dahlia is rather tech-savvy and enjoys the company of others. She tends to try and see the good potential in others, even if that sometimes leaves her naive at times.
