Biography

Kaithorn and his tribe were unlike the other drow, they believed in equality. At first, they wanted to bring peace and unity to all the elven tribes, not just the drow. They wanted to unite all elven races underneath the sky and ground as one tribe. His tribe was seen as a cult, a divergent group that believed in a leader, Vhaerun, Kaithorn's father. Vhaerun believed that he was a god and that he was here in this world to break the shackles of difference and bring harmony, unity. Vhaerun intended to have one of his sons become his champion, Kaithorn had been selected for this. Kaithorn underwent experimentation becoming altered through alchemical mutations, his soul was inscribed with powerful magic tattoos. The process was painful and nearly drove him mad.

The False Prophet

Kaithorn lay in his cell as the sounds of battle stirred him from his restless slumber. The cult of Vhaerun had become such a nuisance that an army was sent to slay every member of the cult and their leader. Kaithorn's brother Kaitlis opened the door and urged his brother to come with him. Their father had been slain, they had to flee from the Underdark. Kaithorn and his brother Kaitlis made their way into the Iron back mountains. The mountains were considered cursed. It didn't take long for them to find out why as night fell. Shrouded in the dark cloak of night, howls echoed throughout the peaks and cliffs.

The Cursed Mountains

He and his brother became hunted again. This time the hunters were fierce werewolves, the iron fang. They were considered the most feared of all the werewolves. They lived here among the inhospitable peaks, none ventured here. This meant the werewolves were some of the oldest in the world. Hunters would not enter the mountains either no matter what the reward was. Kaithorn was bitten by one of the iron fangs in a battle. He and his brother managed to escape by falling down among some large stone, they found a cave here.

The Dark Curse

Over the next few days, as they descended the mountain, Kaithorn began to experience strange dreams. He would awake in sweats and one night he awoke to find his skin covered in a strange white fur. Kaitlis understood what was happening to his brother. His brother was changing, what was worse, there was a blood moon rising on the morrow. As the blood moon rose Kaithorn changed, becoming a werewolf covered in white fur. He began to hunt his own brother having lost control of himself. Kaitlis led his brother away from the mountain and managed to survive the night.

The Gauntlet of Salvation

Kaitlis, at his brother's insistence, bound him to a tree the next night. As Kaithorn changed, he began to fight with his new bestial nature. Perhaps due to the mutations or the magical inscriptions on his soul, he was able to gain some control. It would not be enough, but he could keep himself from attacking his brother after he changed. The two traveled to Velusia, where a silver gauntlet was made for Kaithorn by a surface drow. Kaitlis enchanted the gauntlet to allow Kaithorn to control himself completely and to be able to change at will rather than at the whim of the moon.

Vengeance Rising

Kaithorn then turned his anger on those that first sent him into this spiral of depression. He went back to the Underdark and began to hunt the drow in the dark tunnels. He inflicted the lycanthropy curse on numerous drow, letting them infected and infiltrate the cities of the Underdark. His father's teaching still echoed in the back of his mind, but those teachings did nothing to save his father. He spent many years waging his own personal war against his fellow drow.
