

Omega Operations

Omega Operations is an organization of highly skilled operatives for high value target elimination. Although their operations seem to vary from location to location, assassination, and espionage seem to be the most common tasks the organization takes on for a steep price. Omega Operations was originally a splinter for the infamous Assassin organization Section One. Omega Operations was first noted as a separate organization after a single operative from Section one went to war with said organization. The rogue operative quickly gained allies from within Section One as well as from the free market and turned them against Section One. Omega Operations established themselves during the Assassins War/Corporate War which took place in Ayenee Capitol City, Tesla, and various other smaller localities.
